

College:

Are you going to 'manage' it or is it going to 'manage' you?

And you thought 'managing' was something you did after you went through college. A big NO. If you learn to manage your college years, you're going to sail through. Yes, that's all it takes. How to learn to 'manage' those years.

Any idea where to start? Most students haven't a clue!
That's where we step in to help. With a guide that's fool-proof.

How To Manage Your Years In College

What exactly is this e-book all about?

Well, it tells you how to manage your time
It guides you as to how to manage your attitude
It gives you tips on how to manage your tests and scoring
It teaches you how to manage your moods, your relationships, your surroundings.
It shows you how to prioritize the essentials
It helps you manage your resources
And of course, it wakes you up to the fact that 'managing' is crucial during these years.

Aaahhhh! You're saying perhaps, can a book really teach you to do that?
That's commonsense, right?
Well, if it were, don't you think a lot more students wouldn't be in the frazzled state they seem to be in perpetually right through their years in college?

Take a look at what a few students who previewed the book had to say.

Joe Doe: "I just thought I'd read it – you know, to kind of review it.
And I read it right through without a break. I realized that if I had a plan – and here was this book gifting it to me – I could have it a lot easier in college. Well, I put it into practice. Right away. No waiting for tomorrow- didn't want to lose any more time. And it's paid off. I'm on top of things now, not the other way round!"

Jill Doe: "I knew I needed to get organized. I just didn't know how. There seemed to be just no way that I could ever get things done on time. Till this book. Talk about managing your college life. It worked on a scatterbrain like me. Yesterday I wrote my first Haiku poem sitting alone by the river and having the time of my life!"

You too can be there. Doing things systematically, in an organized fashion. We'll help you do just that. And you know how much it's going to cost you?

Hold your breath.....only $29.95

You heard right. That's all it takes to get you from hassled to organized. From running against time to having time for yourself. From disorganized study that probably gets you nowhere to planned getting ahead in the race.

And all it takes is $29.95

The price of a meal? Well, come and get this 'meal' and you're going to get a lifetime of satisfaction. It's food for your future. And you need it today if you want to benefit from it and learn how to manage your college days better!
